FUJITSU

FUJITSU GLOVIA, INC.

Anytime!
Anyplace!

The Mobile Workplace gives the end user the ability to engage with GLOVIA G2, in real-time and totally secure, regardless of time or location.

Resolving Business Issues

Mobile Workplace addresses the business issues of today's complex manufacturing environment allowing your company to take advantage of the very latest technology by placing this technology in the hands of the end user. End users now have the ability to work with their business system by way of any mobile device.

Mobile Workplace is much more than simple web access. Now the end user can have immediate access to actionable data allowing them to execute their business functions without delay. From approval of a purchase order to labor reporting from a customer site in the field, this immediate action prevents non-value add delays in business functions.

Further, this technology can be applied to any function. In today's world of increased telecommuting, the end user can be productive at any time from any place. Consider the impact this productivity can have on your business.
